Birth for a good child at 9:00 PM sharp, with one last surge of strength, Kyan Josiah Adger Hackney entered the world, a tiny bundle of warmth and wonder. His first cry pierced the air, a sound that would forever echo in Dana's heart. The nurses wrapped him in a soft blanket and placed him on her chest, where he instinctively nestled close. They’d chosen the name for its meaning, “king,” but not for grandeur. For them, it meant a ruler of one’s own character, a leader of a quiet, principled life. His middle names, Josiah Adger, were pulled from the branches of their family tree, a deliberate act of rooting him in a past he would never know firsthand.

II

Childhood years 2005-2023

As Kyan began his educational journey, he found himself navigating the halls of Allen Elementary in 2009. Though his time there was brief, the experiences and friendships forged during that year would have a lasting impact on his life. It was during this period that Kyan's mother, Ms. Dorsey, started working at Curtis Middle School, a place that would later become a significant part of Kyan's life.

In 2009, Kyan transitioned to Caldwell Elementary, where he spent the next six years growing, learning, and making memories that would shape his childhood. The teachers and staff at Caldwell Elementary played a vital role in nurturing Kyan's curious mind and fostering his love for learning. As he progressed through the grades, Kyan's mother continued to work at Curtis Middle School, and her influence extended beyond the classroom, as she became a source of inspiration and guidance for her son.

As Kyan entered his pre-teen years, he began to face new challenges and opportunities. In 2015, he started attending Curtis Middle School, where his mother worked. The familiarity of the school and the presence of his mother provided a sense of comfort and stability, allowing Kyan to thrive in his new environment. During his time at Curtis, Kyan developed strong relationships with his teachers, including Mr. Caruthers, who would later become a significant figure in his life at Southeast High School.

The years passed, and Kyan grew into a bright and determined young man. In 2019, he enrolled at Southeast High School, where Mr. Caruthers, now a familiar face, worked. The high school years are often a time of self-discovery, and for Kyan, they were no exception. He navigated the challenges of adolescence, balancing academics, extracurricular activities, and social relationships. Through it all, his mother's unwavering support and guidance helped him stay focused on his goals.

As Kyan approached the end of his high school career, he reflected on the journey that had brought him to this point. He thought about the teachers, mentors, and family members who had contributed to his growth and development. He realized that the experiences, both triumphs and setbacks, had shaped him into the person he was meant to be.

In 2023, Kyan Josiah Adger graduated from Southeast High

School, ready to embark on the next chapter of his life. As he looked to the future, he knew that the lessons he learned, the relationships he formed, and the love of his mother would remain with him forever. Kyan's story is a testament to the power of perseverance, determination, and the unwavering support of those who believe in us. His journey serves as a reminder that even in the face of adversity, we have the capacity to overcome, to grow, and to thrive.

III

Becoming the Prince of Boston

“ Becoming the Prince of Boston wasn’t that hard is about thinking of how to lead and figure out situations in politics at the time figuring out times of love laws everything else”

Kyan was undaunted. He accepted the challenge with humility and gratitude, knowing that this was an opportunity to make a real difference in the lives of the people of Boston. With his mother's guidance and the Queen's support, Kyan set out to become the leader that Boston needed, using the skills and knowledge he had acquired in Wichita to create a brighter future for all.

As the Prince of Boston, Kyan worked tirelessly to implement the laws and policies he had helped create in Wichita. He collaborated with local leaders, listened to the concerns of the community, and used his charisma and intelligence to bring people together. Slowly but surely, Boston began to flourish under Kyan's leadership, becoming a beacon of hope and prosperity in the region.

IV

Becoming cardinal of Wichita

Kyan was formally invested as Cardinal. He listened intently as the Archbishop spoke of his many qualities, from his tireless work ethic to his unwavering commitment to social justice. Kyan's heart swelled with emotion as he accepted the cardinal's ring, a symbol of his new office.

As the ceremony drew to a close, Kyan rose to address the congregation. His voice, filled with conviction and passion, rang out across the cathedral. "My dear brothers and sisters," he began, "I stand before you today, humbled and honored by the trust that has been placed in me. As your new Cardinal, I pledge to continue the good work of my predecessors, to serve the poor, the sick, and the marginalized. I will be a voice for the voiceless, a beacon of hope in a world that often seems dark and unforgiving."The congregation erupted into applause, and Kyan's eyes shone with tears of joy. He knew that this was just the beginning of a new chapter in his life, one that would be filled with challenges and opportunities. But he was ready, armed with his faith, his compassion, and his unwavering commitment to serving others.

As he left the cathedral, Kyan was greeted by the warm sunshine, a symbol of the bright future that lay ahead. He smiled, feeling the weight of his new responsibility, but also the excitement of the journey that was to come. For Kyan Josiah Adger, the new Cardinal of Wichita, this was just the beginning of a lifetime of service, love, and devotion.

[12] I am ignored as if I were dead,
as if I were a broken pot.
[13] I have heard the many rumors about me,
and I am surrounded by terror.
My enemies conspire against me,
plotting to take my life.
[14] But I am trusting you, O LORD, saying, "You are my God!"

whose record the LORD has cleared of guilt,*
whose lives are lived in complete honesty!
[3] When I refused to confess my sin,
my body wasted away,
and I groaned all day long.
[4] Day and night your hand of discipline was heavy on me.
My strength evaporated like water in the summer heat. Interlude

[8] The LORD says, "I will guide you along the best pathway for your life.
I will advise you and watch over you.
[9] Do not be like a senseless horse or mule that needs a bit and bridle to keep it under control."
[10] Many sorrows come to the wicked, but unfailing love surrounds those who trust the LORD.
[11] So rejoice in the LORD and be glad, all you who obey him!
Shout for joy, all you whose hearts are pure!

33 [1] Let the godly sing for joy to the LORD;
it is fitting for the pure to praise him.
[2] Praise the LORD with melodies on the lyre;
make music for him on the ten-stringed harp.
[3] Sing a new song of praise to him;
play skillfully on the harp, and sing
with joy.
[4] For the word of the LORD holds true,
and we can trust everything he does.
[5] He loves whatever is just and good;
the unfailing love of the LORD fills the earth.

[6] The LORD merely spoke,
and the heavens were created.
He breathed the word,
and all the stars were born.
[7] He assigned the sea its boundaries and locked the oceans in vast reservoirs.
[8] Let the whole world fear the LORD,
and let everyone stand in awe of him.
[9] For when he spoke, the world began!
It appeared at his command.
[10] The LORD frustrates the plans of the nations and thwarts all their schemes.
[11] But the LORD's plans stand firm forever;
his intentions can never be shaken.

Conclave

It was a chilly winter morning on December 29th, 2025, as the world waited with bated breath for the culmination of the Conclave. The atmosphere was electric, filled with anticipation and curiosity, as the cardinals gathered to elect the new leader of the Catholic Church. Among them was Cardinal Kyan Josiah Adger, a man of unwavering faith and unshakeable conviction.

As the Cardinals made their way to the chapel, the hackney procession began, a traditional ceremony that marked the start of the Conclave. The Cardinals, dressed in their elaborate attire, walked in solemn procession, their faces etched with determination and purpose. Cardinal Adger, with his strong jawline and piercing blue eyes, walked alongside his fellow Cardinals, his heart filled with a sense of duty and responsibility.

Upon arriving at the chapel, the Cardinals took their seats, and the ceremony began. The oath was administered, a solemn promise to uphold the principles of the Church and to elect a new leader who would guide the faithful with wisdom and compassion. Cardinal Adger, with his hand on the Bible, took the oath, his voice firm and resolute.

But the Cardinals were not done yet. In addition to the traditional oath, they had decided to take extra ones, a testament to their commitment to the Church and its teachings. These extra oaths were a pledge to uphold the values of transparency, accountability, and justice, values that the Church held dear. Cardinal Adger, along with his fellow Cardinals, took these extra oaths with utmost sincerity, knowing that their words would be binding and their actions would be guided by the principles of the Church.

The days that followed were a whirlwind of activity, as the Cardinals deliberated and prayed, seeking guidance from the Holy Spirit. And challenges of the modern world, and inspiring a new generation of believers to follow in the footsteps of Christ. and finally at 10:45 a.m. extra omens was announced cameras, television were all cut off and waited for the white smoke

VI

Habemus papam

At exactly 12:00, a plume of white smoke billowed out of the chimney of the house, signaling to the world that a new Pope had been elected. The news spread like wildfire, and soon, the streets were filled with the sound of cheering and chanting. "Habemus papam!" the crowd shouted, as they gathered in front of the house, eager to catch a glimpse of the newly elected Pope.

At 12:20, a figure emerged from the house, dressed in traditional Vatican attire. He stepped up to the microphone and began to speak in Latin, his voice booming out across the crowd. "Annuntio vobis gaudium magnum: Habemus papam! Eminentissimum ac reverendissimum Dominum, Kyan Iosiah, Sanctae Romanae Ecclesiae Cardinalem, Adger qui sibi nomen imposuit Innocentium XIV." The crowd erupted into cheers and applause as the news was announced: Kyan Josiah

Adger had been elected as Pope Innocent XIV.

As the crowd continued to celebrate, the newly elected Pope prepared to make his first appearance. At 12:40, he stepped out onto the front porch of the house, a broad smile on his face. The crowd fell silent, mesmerized by the sight of the new Pope. He was dressed in simple, yet elegant attire, and his eyes twinkled with kindness and warmth.

Pope Innocent XIV raised his hands, and the crowd erupted into cheers and applause once again.

He spoke in a gentle, melodious voice, his words filled with compassion and wisdom. "My dear brothers and sisters," he began, "I am humbled and honored to stand before you today, as the newly elected Pope. I promise to serve the Lord and the Church, with all my heart and soul. I ask for your prayers and your support, as we embark on this new journey together."

As the Pope spoke, the crowd was transfixed, hanging on his every word. They were drawn in by his charisma and his message of hope and love. And as he finished speaking, they erupted into cheersand applause once again waving flags and banners in celebration.

The city of Wichita, Kansas, was abuzz with excitement, as the news of the new Pope spread far and wide. And as the day drew to a close, the people gathered in front of the house, still cheering and chanting, knowing that they had witnessed something truly historic. For in this small, unassuming house, a new era had begun, and a new leader had emerged, to guide the Church and the world, into a brighter future.

As the sun set over the city, casting a warm orange glow over the streets, the people of Wichita knew that they would never forget this day, December 29th, 2025, the day that Kyan Josiah Adger was elected as Pope Innocent XIV. And as they looked up at the stars, twinkling in the night sky, they knew that they were part of something much bigger than themselves, a global community of faith and hope, united under the leadership of the new Pope.

VIII

Why become pope

To understand why Kyan Josiah Adger took the name innocent we would have to look back at the older pope from the beginning

That’s reason why I chose the name innocent was because of of innocent of 13th because the way he had challenges in his lifetime, but why did I become? Why did I get elected to become pope. The reason was just to role-play understanding ways to help people is it really that hard it’s easy you bless them. You pray for them do all good stuff but challenges are not that tough. You understand them and I want to give you this interview with one of these news people

NS

So now you’re the Pope of Wichita can you give me any advice on why you chose the name innocent

H.H

Well, the reason why I wanted to become pope what to help people in need you know this crisis of this world is in danger. You know a lot of people are homeless by the way that I can help people to pray for them to understand them what their feelings are so helping the people out is helping the world out is helping Jesus.

NS

So what’s your major goal plan of during this pontificate your holiness

H.H

one of my goals is to build relationships with the school, build relationship with the teachers you know because there's a lot of fights that go on in schools and helping them bond with you know everything because bonding together it's friendship and in such a way we you know help others understand kindness, friendship and contain love in Christ another one of my goals is to stop drama gossip God doesn't understand gossip but he knows it. Your committing adultery and gossip is gossip is telling the Lord that you don’t believe in him it’s spreading rumors it’s hurting someone’s feelings so for us to understand that we can say I can tell this teacher or I can come to this guy and say someone was doing this and I will say I wanna talk to that person calmly nicely describe the situation or talk to a counselor because God will be always there.

He will be there in your mind to be helpful as well.

NS

I mean, that’s really cool. You understand you know how to do this and right now your pope innocent the 14th I mean, you you’ve you’ve done your first blessing to the world now you got all those noon speeches every Sunday mass every Sunday can you handle that?

H.H

Yeah, I can because there’s a chalice raising that you know, gone in the blood and everything when you raise a chalice that’s a blessing when you raise the bread that’s a blessing. It’s something that we can learn into and not forget.

NS

Well, before we go off the air, his holiness would like to give his blessing

H.H

Lord, be with you now and forever may Almighty God, the father and the son and the Holy Spirit be with you and always amen

And that’s why a time frame between the worlds of Christ and Wichita under his holiness pope innocent, the 14th the end
